the article she flung it on the table, and with her eye flashing fire exclaimed: "It's all untrue!"

This admission seemed to relieve Mrs. McDonald, for she then became composed and proceeded: "Now, let me explain everything to you, since I have disclosed my identity. In the first place, the report that I have fied with my husband's money is untrue. I have not handled any of his money for three months, and then the amount was not more than 35,000. This was all that was ever intrusted to me for defending my husband, and it was all that he had.

"But to explain this I must start at the beginning. In 1890, while stopping in San Francisco with a friend named Mrs. Ettong, I met Mr. McDonald in We were all studying music, and as he was interested in singing he used to call and study with us. I left San Francisco that summer, and was engaged to marry Mr. McDonald in a year. I came to St. Louis with my mother-in-law, Mrs. Charlton, and from here I intended visiting my parents in Baden, Germany, with Mrs. Charlton. We were to stay there a year and then, returning, I was to marry Mr. McDonald. Oakland, Cal., July 12.—Prof. Henry Krause of this city—seer, musician and physicist—eats no meat, sleeps in a coffin instead of a bed, with only a scanty blanket to cover him, and says that when he retires to his gruesome couch his spirit penetrates into the future and he reads the destiny of the race. Krause seems to be an educated, up-to-date citizen, and talks plausibly in defense of his peculiar habits and his spiritual achievements, which he says are all based upon strictly scientific principles. His coffin bed is constructed of rude pine boards. He says the custom of sleeping on soft beds is responsible for much of the enervation in modern civilization. A hard, unyielding couch, he declares, is conducive to rugged health. As for the coffin part of the programme, Prof. Krause says it is a daily reminder of the brevity of life, and is helpful, as it enables him at night to concentrate his mind upon the invisible world. If it were practicable, he says he would go naked. He has a great admiration for Capt, Von Schmidt, who without clothing braves wind and rain on the Oakland estuary, and who is one of the most robust men in California. Prof. Krause built six coffins for his children to sleep in, but they continue to repose on spring mattresses. He has succeeded, however, in getting some of them to adopt his vegetarian diet. NEW FACTS BROUGHT OUT.

Why He Has Changed His Mind About Dr. Hearne and Mrs. Stillwell.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HANNIBAL, Mo. July 12.—It was 9:20 o'clock this morning before the attorneys were ready to resume taking depositions in the Dr. Hearne libel suit against the San Francisco Chronicle involving incidents connected with the murder of Amos J. Stillwell, in 1888.

R. H. Stillwell, son of the murdered man, and stepson of the wife of Dr. Hearne, who gave his direct testimony yesterday, was cross-examined to-day.

Mr. Stillwell said that if he was permitair. Stillwell said that it he was permitted to do so he would like to explain why he had deviated from a strict answer to the questions yesterday. He said: "I have been accused of trying to suppress the investigation of this case for a period of five or six years. I firmly believed in

"Ddl you give them the source of information?"
"It gave them one source."
"Yet you refused to tell me in private conversation yesterday. I ask the names of your three informants."
"Do I understand that I must answer?"
Then the witness said: "Part of the information was gained from Mrs. C. T. Haywood, part from Mrs. John Haywood, and part probably from W. A. Munger.
"What did C. T. Haywood tell you!"
"He told me substantially about all that I tid you yesterday."
"Well, repeat what be told you."
"You mean the statement I made yesterday? You mean about the criminal intimacy? He told me all and has known it all for some time."
"Who told you about the slugging that Dr. Hearne talked about?"
"Mrs. Suste Haywood of Chicago made that statement to me as having been made to her by Dr. Hearne, and that he told her in connection about meeting and having passed my father one night in my father's residence. She said that if he had shot my father the people would have thought he was shot by a burglar."
"What kind of a woman is Mrs. Haywood?"

"She is above reproach. Her statements are astruthful as any in this community. Mrs. Haywood also told me that Mrs. Stillwell was completely under the control and in the power of Dr. Hearne before my father's death, and he could do anything with her that he wanted to."
"Did she say how he could do it?"
"She did not."

The direct testimony of Richard H. Stillwell was given late yesterday afternoon. The substance of it was as follows:
"Were you frequently at your father's ouse between the time of the murder and then he was buried?"

time?"

"I think she spent most of the time in the front room of the house on the second floor, just east of my father's bedroom."

"Who was with her most frequently, if any one, during that time?"

"I think Dr. Hearne was with her almost constantly."

"I think Dr. Hearne was with her almost constantly."
Did you see Dr. Hearne and Mrs. Fannie Stillwell together in such a way as to observe the conduct of either?"
"I saw them frequently together."
"What was Dr. Hearne's conduct toward Mrs. Stillwell; what did it indicate?"
"My impressions of his conduct toward her were that his movements, his language and his touch were as gentle and affectionate as they could be."
"When did you make this observation, Mr. Stillwell?"
"Within a day or two after my father was killed."

"What did it cause you to do, if anything?"

The caused me to write a letter to Mrs. Stillwell in Battle Creek and advise her that if she was not aware of Dr. Hearne's devotions and attentions to her, or if he had not already proposed to her, my belief was that he soon would, and that unless she stopped her attentions to him or compelled him to keep away from her, or, in other words, if she should accept a proposition of marriage from him, which I could see was inevitable, my opinion was that she could no longer associate with respectable people in this community or he looked upon with respect in Hannibal."

"Have you since learned of anything of that kind?"

"Yes, sir, I have."

"Yes, sir, I have."

"Yes, sir, I have."

"I have learned within the past two weeks that Dr. Hearne and father's wife were, before my father's death, in love with each other; that their actions and conduct on one occasion caused my father's wife to be alarmed at the situation that existed between the two, and she in some way tried to break off this relationship and persuaded one or two persons to have a talk with Dr. Hearne and induce him to quit exercising his influence over her; to induce him to stop his visits to her, and that Dr. Hearne at that time told that party who had interfered in the matter that he was not willing to stop his devotions to my father's wife; that he did not consider my father aft companion for her, and that he intended to use his influence to bring about a divorce between my father's wife and my father."

"I learned that on one occasion he made a

"I have learned that on one occasion, while my father was in St. Louis. Dr. Hearne was in Mr. Louis. Dr. Hearne was in my father's house one night when he returned home suddenly and unexpectedly; that Dr. Hearne was naked in the house when my father walked in the door; that he had not time to put his clothes on before my father entered the house; that my father passed him in the hallway upstairs, without my father's knowledge, and after my father went into his room and locked his door. Dr. Hearne dressed, slipped out of the house and went home. I have also learned that he was cautioned because of his actions touching this matter, and replied that had he met my father in the hall that night that he would have shot him dead on the spot. He also made a remark that he had a revolver with him.

"The party with whom he, had this conversation made the remark to him that he would some day be found out in his tricks with my father's wife, and he replied that doctors and ministers were never suspected.

"I desire to state that prior to this knowledge I believed that they were not criminally intimate with each other, and that the suspicious circumstances which connected them with the crime of my father's murder of the crime; that they were not criminally intimate with each other, and that the suspicious circumstances which connected them with the crime of my father's murder of the crime; that they were not criminally intimate with each other, and that the sustements have changed my mind with reference to the murder.

"Nothing," he said, "unless I am permitted to proceed as I started."

Mr. Mahan then suggested that he could do so, as he had no special objection to arge. The witness continued:

"It is my belief from what I have heard that Mr. Anderson knew that they were eriminally intimate and that they had talked together and consulted him about the plan, either to get my father out of the way or to obtain a divorce, with alimony, and that Mr. Anderson advised them that could obtain a divorce and rather urged sham to this precedure."

Friday in the Criminal Court in the railroad order forgery cases.
Thomas O'Connor, Wm. Glenny, John McDermott, Thomas Ryan, Edward Wheeler and C. L. Harris were indicted on the charge of forging membership cards of the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.
A demurrer to the indictments was filed that the cards represented no monetary obligation.
In overruling the demurrer, Judge Harvey held that while the cards were of no value on their face, to obtain them it was necessary to pay certain sums in the way of duss and initiation fees, and that in these, as well as other benefit orders, the cards entitled holders to relief from brother members and also in some instances to railroad transportation.

They had ridden to the city by moonlight, holding the dead man between them while Winter sat on the stiffened knees of the corpse and drove. The body was taken to the Morgue and Winter was looked up. At the inquest he was bound over.

Winter is 65 years old, a farmer, and of good reputation. For several years he has employed Butler on his farm. The agreement was that Butler should receive part of his pay in hard cider. Butler had worked two weeks and had already drunk up the supply of hard cider. He demanded more. Winter refused to give it to him. While Winter was at supper, Butler entered and struck him. Winter ran to an outbuilding. Butler followed him. Winter dodged back into the house. So far all the stories agree. Mrs. Winter and all the witnesses but one stated that Winter seized a hickory stick and struck Butler across the chest. Another hired man named Ruck, however, said that Winter struck Butler with an iron bar on the chest, and afterwards on the head. Butler was knocked insensible. Winter and his wife tried to revive him, but failing they placed him in the phaeton and drove to Butler's home. Before they arrived he died.

a Brutal Assault on Neilie Whalen.

Neilie Whalen a modest appearing giri of about 18 years, app ared in the First District Police Court Friday to prosecute Terrence Bartley, a glass-blower, whom she charged with brutally beating her.

Woman's heroism is not evinced by fearlesaness or enterprise in time of danger, but her courage and fortitude are unquestionable in time of suffering.

Think of the woman who smiles and tries to make those around her chserful, while she is racked with the exeruciating tortures of womb trouble.

Think of one who, day by day, bega her physician to help her, while the torture of tortures could not add to her misery.

Does she yield? No! She endures her agonles, and meets her friends with cheerfulness.

This is woman's heroism, and few men realize how prevalent they are. Physicians rarely render relief in such cases.

Aftertwenty years of success, with everincreasting popularity, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegstable Compound is, to-day, woman's only sure and safe refuge from inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, ovarian trouble, leucorrhose, painful and suppressed menstruations, kidney trouble, nervous prestration, and all manner of distressing and life-sapping female diseases.

"O my sisters, believe what is told you at this wonderful medicine! Before I took it I had falling of the womb and leucorrhose. My womb came down so badly I could not walk across the floor; the pain was excruciating; now all is so changed, and I am so happy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved me from a life of misery. Don't, don't suffer, I say, when a cure is so easily obtained."—Mrs. William Howe, 163 Antoin Street, Detroit, Mich.

AT $3,000 PER FOOT.

New Price Established for East Pine Street Property.

Pine street property. At noon Friday the northeast corner of Pine and Seventh streets northeast corner of Pine and Seventh streets was sold at $3.00 a foot. Benjamin Graham, President of the Graham Paper Co. of this city, was the purchaser.

Three years ago Mr. Graham leased the corner for five years on a valuation of $100,000. In addition he had the privilege of purchasing before the expiration of the lease. In three years the property increased over $25,000 in value, and in view of the proposed costly improvements in the vicinity and the possibility of another big jump in value, Mr. Graham decided to purchase immediately.

in value, Mr. Graham decided to purchase immediately.

Charles H. Turner, the Gerhart Realty Co., and Blackwelder & Holbrook are the real estate brokers interested in the deal. The sale was reported to have been closed some time ago, but there was a hitch in the deal which was finally overcome.

At passent the premises sold are occupied by a rickety hotel building and saloon. The property is a portion of the Gantt estate, having been purchased many years ago by T. T. Gantt, since deceased. His niece, Clara Gantt, inherited the property and executed a ninty-nine-year lease on the property to Edward Foerstel, deceased, the lease was assigned to John Dwyer, the real estate owner. Mr. Dwyer later game into the possession of the northwest Corner of Fire and Seventh streets. He subleased the northeast corner and then decided to sell and to use the proceeds in improving the northwest corner. It is said that he has plans for a fourteen-story office building.

The lot sold has a frontage of forty-two fice building.

The lot sold has a frontage of forty-two and one-half feet on Pine street and fifty-eight feet three inches on Seventh. The price paid was $127,500. Mr. Graham has a proposition to improve the site with an office building. rice building.

Conservative dealers say the deal was a good one. At present not less than a dozen new buildings are proposed to take the places of the rookertes in the vicinity. Among them can be mentioned Legg's Medical Building, Sheehan's block, the remodelling of the Masonic Temple, the proposed Dwyer structure, the Stifel Building at Seventh and Clark avenue and a six-story building at Seventh and Chestnut.

Devan is forcible in argument and he tried to convince Hauss that his complaint was ustimely by chewing his ear and one finger, blacking his eye and giving him two scalp wounds with a levee pebble. Hauss was worsted, but not convinced. After Dr. Newcomb fixed him up at the Dispensary he left. He said he would not have Devan arrested, and incidentally prophesied that Devan would be trepairs.

CLERKS ELECT OFFICERS.

President Sellers Chosen to Again Preside Over the National Association.

Association at the morning session of its fifth annual convention Friday balloted for officers for the ensuing year.

President A. H. Sellers of Kansas City was a candidate for re-election. His only opponent was J. J. O'Neill, President of the Local Lodge, No. 80, of St. Louis. The vote stood 19 for Sellers and II for O'Neill. Mr. Sellers was declared elected.

L. M. Stern of Denver, Colo., was the successful candidate for the office of First Vice-President. He received 16 votes, while J. J. O'Neill was given 14.

Denver and Miswaukse were candidates for the location of the next National Convention. Denver was selected, and the time for holding the next convention is the second Tuesday in July, 1888.

L. L. Schwartz of Birmingham, Ala., and Harry Mason of Kansas City, were elected as members of the Executive Board.

Max Loebenburg of Indianapolis was elected as a delegate to the National Convention of the Federation of Labor to be held in December.

Ed E. Mallory of Chicago will probably be re-elected Secretary, as he has no opponent. An effort is being made to cut his salary from 11,200 down to 5000 per year, but the sentiment seems to be in favor of allowing it to remain as it is.

The mutual benefit plan of insurance will come up for consideration at to-night's session.

WOMAN KIDNAPPED Carried Away Bodily From the House of Her Sister.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 12.—Mrs. William James, aged 18, a bride of a few weeks, was kidnapped from the porch of the house of her sister in North Indianapolis by a man who held a revolver to her head to prevent any outery, while he carried her to a buggy in which she was driven away. Her sister saw her being carried off and gave the alarm, but there was so much confusion that the man had escaped with the woman before a pursuing party was organized. A warrant was sworn out for William Lowe, an alleged rejected lover of Mrs. James, who is suspected by the husband of having done the kidnapping, but against whom there appears to be little evidence at present.

MRS. CUMMINS' HEARING.

Charged With Having Caused the Death of Her Husband.

LINNEUS, Mo., July 12.-Mrs. C. G. Cum-

LINNEUS, Mo., July 12—Mrs. C. G. Cummins is having her preliminary examination to-day on a charge of having caused the death of her husband by drugging him to obtain the money on a $2,000 insurance policy on his life.

On the morning of July 4 C. G. Cummins was found dead in bed with his clothes on. His wife was arrested soon after charged with poisoning him, and an inquest held over the corpse. As no polson was found the jury returned a verdict that he died from causes unknown to them, but that they believed his wife had chloroformed him.

Mrs. Cummins is a fine looking woman, about 35 years, is well educated and was once a school teacher and elocutionist. She has traveled extensively. The motive the prosecution presents for the alleged murder was to obtain the $2,000 life insurance Cummins was carrying in his wife's favor and had taken out since their marriage on June 7, she paying for the policy.

C. G. Cummins was a successful shoe dealer of this city, and had lived here nearly twenty years. He came from Kentucky and left there partly on account of a feud between the Anderson and Adams families, in which his family had taken sides, and which resulted in the death of his father, brother and sister.

Mr. Cummins had told some brother Odd Fellows, they claim, that his wife was trying to kill him, but he lived with her after that, and in spite of the alleged warnings of his friends stayed at home the night of July 3 and was found dead the next morning. He had not removed his outer clothing for the night of her had not removed his outer clothing for the night of he had slept very little during that time, as he claimed he was a rariad he would be killed. He also alleged that he once detected her attempting to give him something she had in a spoon.

Newell is 42 years old, and has a wife, from whom he is separated, but has no children. He guards the coal barges of the Laciede Gas Light Company at the foot of Rutger street. Thursday night Newell went to sleep in an attic on the third floor over a saloon at 1406 South Second street. He failed to appear at the barges this morning, and his half-brother. Charles Newell, called at 1405 South Second to inquire about him. All the families in the tenement had gone down on a fresh air excursion, and the place was deserted. Charles hastened to the attic, and when he opened the door found his brother lying on the floor in the midst of a pool of blood, with a gash running across the throat until it allowed the skin to hang down in a flap. Joe held an old Barlow knife in his hand. He had cut his throat about an hour before, and was slowly bleeding to death. He had not cut the jugular vein, else death would have resulted instantly.

ONLY ONE MAN LACKING. MAY BE-A LITTLE BAD GIRL SHE IS ENG

Uni Pults may be a bad little colored stri for her 13 years and she may not. She is locked up at the Third District Police Station charged with having set fire to a shed occupied by Friesten & Wienckler in the rear of their blacksmith shop, my North Sixth street. A horse was cremated and the stable and contents damaged $100. Uni says she did not set fire to the stable. She was crying as though her heart would break when seen Friday morning. She says that about 4 o'clock Thursday aftermon her mother gave her a penny to get a box of matches. Returning she passed through the alley between Seventh and Eighth, Carr and Biddle streets. Fred Kemper and John Booker, two old colored men employed in Martin's coal yard, stopped her and asked for matches to light their pipes. They threw the half-burned matches into the shed. She saw the smoke coming out and asked them what they were doing. They threw more matches in and then she ran away.

That was her story and to give it plausibility she added that Kemper had a big row with the owner of the stable a week ago.

The weak point of her story is that it would be impossible to throw matches into the stable without passing them through the crevices.

Kemper and Booker say that they asked Uni for matches but say she came along and guyed them about their tattered shoes. She opened the box of matches and striking several, poked them into the shed. She laughed at the idea of doing damage, saying there was only a little dry hay in the place. When she saw the blaze she started away. Kemper and Booker ran over to the Third District Station and reported the matter at once.

SUSTAINED THE LAW.

But Conviction of Charles Stoetzer Does Not End the Fight. .

In the Court of Criminal Correction the 4106 North Broadway fined $25. Martin & Bass appeared for the defendant and Prosecuting Attorney Mulvihill and J. L. Hopkins sustained the cause of the State.

The witnesses against Stoetzer were Elmer Cherry of 2306 Wash street, Sylvester Caston, Charles H. Bell and William Ritchie of 1425 Hogan street. They are all barbers belonging to the union, and on the Sunday in question went to Stoetzer's shop and had various things done in the way of barbering. The jury were out fifteen minutes and returned a verdict of guilty. The case will be appealed.

Additional warrants were issued against Gus Senn of 1841 South Eleventh street, Jacob Hodecker of 1838 South Twelfth street and Heline Crowe of 1025 Anne avenue. They are barbers charged with keeping open on Sunday.

The boss barbers have not yet decided 4106 North Broadway fined $25. Martin & are barbers charged with keeping open on Sunday.

The boss barbers have not yet decided what steps to take on the Sunday closing question. They have not yet given up hope that the law may be defeated before reaching the court of last resort. There is a case on the docket of Judge Murphy's court for Friday, and the outcome of this is awaited. Friday night the Boss Barbers' Association, formed for the sole purpose of fighting the law, will hold a meeting and decide upon a course of action in the light of the result in the two cases.

While the boss barbers are cast down at Stoetser's conviction, the Journeymen are elated over it. When the news spread among the knights of the reaor, for they think they can see their Sundays free at least until the cases reaches the Supreme Court.

among the knights of the razor, for they think they can see their Sundays free at least until the cases reaches the Supreme Court.

The second victim of the Lancaster barber shop closing law was placed on trial at 11:30 a. m. The first Sanday after the law went into effect John Layne, a colored tonsorial artist at 30 North Ninth street, was caught shaving a customer.

The conviction of Steetzer brought President Geo. A. Senn of the Boss Barbers' Association to Jrosecutor Johnson's office before Layne's case was called. Mr. Senn told the Assistant Prosecuting Attorney that the association had agreed that all their shops should be closed next Sunday and until Stoetzer's case is decided by the Supreme Court. Accordingly, Mr. Johnson refused to issue warrants after Mr. Senn's visit, and informations against Charles Biler, 104 South Fourth street, and A. G. Kempf, 3752 Oregon avenue, were rejected. He had already issued several warrants, the last being against Adam Ott, 3690 South Broadway; Gottleib Kull, 3403 Lemp avenue; Fred Hildebrant, 3317 Easton avenue; Fred Hildebrant, 3317 Easton avenue; Fred Hildebrant, 3317 Easton avenue, Henry Diehl, 1446 South Third street, and Henry Buchman, 830 Geyer avenue. Afterward Mr. Senn denied giving Mr. Johnson any gound for believing the shops would close.

The other cases besides Layne's on the docket Friday were against Charles Kuebler, Max Koeppen and Frank Fernstead.

Attorneys Gustav Stern and James L. Hopkins again conducted the prosecution Friday, and Attorney Louis A. McGinnis appeared for the defense. Owing to the fact that several of the jury panel had formed an opinion antigonistic to the law, it required about an hour to secure a complete jury. Several on the panel had served on the jury that convicted Stoetzer, and Mr. McGinnis, requested that they be excused. Judge Murphy refused on the ground that he could not furnish a new jury to try each case.

The first witness in the case was Officer C. A. Campbell. On direct examination he testified that he saw Layne shavi face.

Contrary to expectation a verdict was returned at 12:30 o'clock acquitting Layne.

The appropriation bill as it was sent to the House of Delegates represented a fairly careful distribution of the city's available funds. DEMOCRACY AND BIMETALLISM.

In view of the attempt to drag the Democratic party into the camp of the Wall street financiers who want corporation credit money based upon gold, the financial utterances of the party since the demonetization of silver are of special interest and importance. In 1876, the first year in which there was opportunity to raise a definite issue on the question, the National Democratic Convention adopted the following plank: Reform is necessary to establish sound currency, restore the public credit and main twin the national honor, ince the failure for all these promise of the legal tender notes, which are a changing standard of value in the hands of the people and the non-payment of which is a disregard of the plighted faith of the nation.

We denounce the financial imbedility and the immorality of the party which, during eleven years of peace, has made no advance towards resumption, no preparation for resumption, but instead, has obstructed resumption, wasting resources and exhausting all our surplus income, and while annually professing to intend a speedy return to specie payments, has annually enacted fresh hindrances thereto. As such hindrance we denounce the resumption clause of the act of 1875, and we hereion clause of the act of 1875, and we here demand its repeal.

In 1880 the Democratic platform contained a brief but forcible affirmation of the party's traditional principle of bimetallism. It declared in favor of "honest money, consisting of gold and silver, paper convertible into coin on de nand."

In 1884, when Mr. Cleveland was the andidate for the first time, the party's atterance on the money question was gain brief and to the point, being emagain brief and to the point, being em-podied in the following single sentence: We believe in honest morey, the gold and fiver coinage of the constitution, and a inculating medium convertible into such sonsy without loss.

In 1888 the National Democratic platform reassirmed the platform adopted in

In 1892 the first touch of the plutocratic hand was visible in a carefully devised compromise, which, although it pledged the party unequivocally to bimetallism, imposed conditions upon the coinage of silver which supplied excuse for opposition to its immediate restoration, to its place as a standard money. After de-

We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal or charge for mintage, but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and interchangeable value, or be adjusted through international agreement or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the markets and in the payment of debts; and we demand that all paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin.

The Democratic party has always adhered to bimetallism. The effort to drive it into support of gold monometallism or any compromise, or to keep it from striving to restore aliver to its rightful place in the coinage is hostile to its prin-

GIVE THEM TIME.

It is reported that Mr. Francis, ex Judge Priest and a few others are in favor of not allowing the State convention to go by default, but of making a contest in behalf of the single gold standard. It is to be hoped that their view will prevail. After the strenuous efforts they have made to prevent the holding they have made to prevent the holding of a convention, it will be an open confession that they are a pitiful minority of mere obstructionists if they fail to make an effort at least to show that they have a substantial following among the Democrats of Missouri.

Palmer, Cable, and the other gold stan dard men of Illinois were severely and justly criticised for standing off and railing at the Democrats who favored a State convention, instead of contesting for supremacy at the polls. There can be no doubt that they injured themselves and their cause greatly by contenting themselves with scolding and protesting instead of acting. It will be the same here in Missouri. Men who have not the courage of their convictions, or who are afraid to show it if they have it, cannot expect to be factors in politics. The people despise mere obstructionists, If Mr. Francis, Mr. Priest, Mr. Lehman and Col. Grif Prather will appear before the State Committee next Monday and ask for time in which to make a cam-paign in behalf of their views, the Post-Dispatch hopes that their request will be granted. The advocates of a conven-tion have no desire to take snap judgment, or to prevent any element of the Democratic party from obtaining ample opportunity to make its influence felt in the convention. It makes comparatively little difference whether the convention is held about the middle of August or early in September. If the convention is postponed until some date between the 1st and the 10th of September, there will be time enough for an active campaign. Though nominally longer, even Presiden tial campaigns rarely last more than six Let six weeks be given, if the gold standard men ask for it, and then let all Democrats have a fair field and no favor. The convention must be decisive of the sentiments of Missouri Democrats.

SMOKE OUT THE BOODLERS.

The panic of the suspected boodlers of the Illinois Legislature over the report that a resolution for the appointment of an investigating committee will be intro-duced in the House next Tuesday is a strong hint that the time is opportune for an investigation.

No better work could be accomplished during the extra session than the exposure of the crookedness of the regular ession. Nor could any better course be adopted to attain the objects of the extra session than that of a searching inquiry into boodleism. It would be a master stroke of policy on the part of the honest element in the House. It would checkmate the schemes of the lobby and

The election of Cochran to the Speak ership offers an excellent opportunity to secure a genuine investigation. Speake Cochran would undoubtedly name an investigating committee that would investigate and not whitewash the boodlers.

A PLAYED-OUT TRICK.

The Iowa Republicans have probably foreshadowed the attitude of the Republican party on the money question in the next campaign. They have adopted the platform of 1892, which embodies the straddling de-mand for bimetallism with the parity of gold and silver and the equality of one dollar with every other dollar. As to the means of securing bimetal-lism, the platform offers nothing but the will o' the wisp of international agreement. It urges the United States Government to use its influence to induce other governments to come to an agree ment which will enable us to reopen our nints to the free and unlimited coinage of both metals. This trick is played out. The people know now that it means nothing except the indefinite postponement of the remonetization of silver. It proposes, to keep the United States in the position of a suppliant asking of other nations the privilege to do justice to the people; until the game of grab is over.

This platform suits no one but the gold and South will not accept it.

Mr. Maffitt can now measure his influence with the Democrats of Missourt. An elaborate letter was concocted for him, discrediting and opposing a State convention, which he signed as Chairman all the chairmen of the Democratic County Committees. It was expected to have great effect upon the Den sourl. As a matter of fact it was totally disregarded, and the county committees went on the same as before demanding a Sate convention. It is a lesson for would-be bosses which they should take Opportunities for Colored Men.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

That is a pathetic appeal which "E Pluribus Unum" makes in Thursday Post-Dispatch. Perhaps no more difficult problem confronts the people of this city than that of the employment of its colored population. They must live. Only menial occupations are open to them, and these lines of work cannot employ them all. What can they do? Manifestly many of them are practically forced into crime.

The remedy is emigration. Discrimination against colored men in the trades is not general in the East—probably not in the Northwest or the North Central States. Colored carpenters, plumbers, machinists, etc., are commonly seen in New York and New England cities. It is a mystery to me that any colored man who aspires to something better than menial work for himself or his children, should remain where every avenue is barred. Let the industrious, sober colored man go East or North and he will be surprised at the greater opportunities that will open to him.

It is almost as satisfactory in its fiaring effect as hairoloth, and, though not quite as dainty as the muslin skirt with its frilis of embroidery, yet it diminishes the washerwoman's bill, and that is saying much in its favor.

The skirt is made with a dark blue silk yoke, which fits smoothly over the hips, and is cool and comfortable in summer. It has organ-pipe plaits at the back and a ruffie at the sides and in front. The ruffie is bound with silk, and altogether the skirt has an air of elegance. Plain skirts of black moreen are very serviceable, and those made of white with a lace frill are charming to wear beneath an unlined lawn, organdie or dimity frook.

counties, where there is no wine on the table, and where, consequently, alcohol drinking in barrooms is oustomary.

I have lived more than thirty years in Europe. I always had wine on the table at every meal, and I have not been drunk once in all my life; and my experience has convinced me that, all over the civilized world, drunkenness is more or less prevalent just in direct ratio of the absence of the light wine on the table and its ordinary use at meals instead of coffee and tea.

This country, in which grape vines grow wild and which could so easily produce excellent light table wines in abundance, never will eradicate drunkenness before better informed and less narrow your intelligent temperance advocates understand that the only way to make a nation temperate is to formed and less narrow your intelligent temperance advocates understand that the only way to make a nation temperate is to provide for them wine-honest wine like that of the Cana wedding-instead of whisky, tea, coffee or even water. When the American people will have habitually light wine at their meals, as they have in South France, Italy, Spain, Greece and North Arrica, then, and only then, will temperance replace drunkenness.

FORETOLD HER DEATH.

The Prophecy Made by a Long Island Woman Strangely Verified.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STONY BROOK, L. I., July 12.—The death on Thursday of Mrs. Edwin Smith recalls a singular prophecy she made about herself a year ago. At that time she was very low, it was supposed from consumption. One morning she arose, dressed herself and, going to breakfast, told that she had a vision in which the Lord had told her she was to live until after the birth of a son. From that hour she began to improve and recovered her health. Three weeks ago she gave birth to a son. Tuesday last she died.

FAST MAIL WRECKED.

Dashed Through an Open Switch, Kill-ing Engineer and Injuring Fireman. HAMMOND, La., July 12.—The northbound Illinois Central fast mail was wrecked four miles south of here at 8 wrecked four miles south of here at 8 o'clock last night. The train at full speed dashed into an open switch, down a side-track and struck some flat cars. The engine turned over and the first mail car was thrown on top of it. Jack Purdel, engineer, remained at his post and reversed the lever. He was crushed and scalded to death. George Hammond, fireman, jumped and had both arms broken. It is believed negroes threw the switch, as the lock was broken and the light out.

DEEPENING THE CHANNEL.

Work on the Mississippi From the Missouri to the Ohio.

WASH. TON, D. C., July 12.—The report of the e. gineers having charge of the work on the Mississippi River between the nouth of the Missouri and the mouth of the mouth of the Missouri and the mouth of the Ohio reached the War Department yesterday. The report says the object of the work will be to obtain eventually a six-foot minimum channel at standard low water, from the Missouri to St. Louis; an eightfoot minimum from St. Louis; an eightfoot minimum from St. Louis to the Ohio. The natural depth in many instances is only from three feet six inches to four feet. A reduction of the width of the river to 2,500 feet is contemplated below St. Louis. The original estimate of the cost of the work is 116,597,500.

TRADE RESTRICTIONS.

Germany Closing Out Our Products Under Guise of Hygienic Measures. WASHINGTON, July 12.-The stringen relations of Germany regarding the importation into that country of American products have again been brought to the attention of the Agricultural Department in a report by European Agent John Mattes, Jr., on American evaporated or dried fruits in the German empire. Shippers of these fruits are given warning of the severe restrictions imposed by Germany, which the department views as commercial rather than hygienic, and merely intended to shut out American trade. The report cites a recent court trial at Frankfort-on-the-Main to determine whether these dried apples or "ring apples" were impure and injurious to public health and subject to seizures under the provisions of the pure food law. Government experts testified that relations of Germany regarding the imjurious to public health and subject to seizures under the provisions of the pure food law. Government experts testified that they were sprinkled with a tinge of acetate of zinc to give them a bright color and more inviting appearance. Apples so sprinkled, they claimed, brought on indigestion, dyspepsia and in children vomiting and diarrhoea. The department officials say they are confident that if any zinc is introduced in the fruits, the amount is small and cannot be injurious. It is denied that the practice exists here of drying the fruits on zinc plates, as claimed by Germany, and the warming to discontinue the galvanized iron trays used for drying is intended to do away with any possibility of introducing zinc, and thus giving opportunity for foreign criticism on that score.

MYSTERY OF THOMAS MYBRS. YELLOW FEVER SPREADING.

The Foresters Think He Was Poisoned, Alarming Condition in Cuba and Puerto and Are Investigating.

GEM, Ind., July 12.—The body of Thomas Myers has not been found, but gradually the story of how he was put out of the way and a grave dug into which an empty coffin was lowered, is coming to light. The El-wood Court of Foresters, of which Myers was a member, claims to have evidence that he was poisoned, and warrants have been issued for the arrest of several residents of Elwood and vicinity. There has been intense interest in the case ever since the discovery of the empty coffin in the country cemetery at Clifford. The Order of Foresters believed something was wrong, and John Noble, the Financial Secretary of the Lodge, was detailed to investigate. It is announced that he is almost ready to report. Many persons believe that a thorough search of the locality about Gem will disclose Myers' body, while others believe that he is alive. But the members of the Foresters, who have made the investigation, are confident that they have fixed the crime. They will continue the search for the grave in which Myers is buried, and believe they will find it somewhere near this village. and a grave dug into which an empty coffin

STORY OF A STRANGE MARRIAGE. Told on the Witness Stand by Mrs. Emma Hudson Page.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Emma Hudso NEW TORK, July 12.—Emma Hudson Page, an attractive little woman, modest even to shyness in her manner, and arrayed in the deepest mourning was placed on the witness stand before Surrogate Abbott in Brooklyn yesterday to testify regarding a strange marriage which she says took place between herself and James W. Page, nearly ten years ago, by virtue of which she claims to be his widow and asks for letters of administration on his $30,000 estate.

Married at nidnight, according to her story, in a Vermont town, the name of which she has only recently learned and by a local magistrate who is entirely unknown to her, she has no certificate or record to prove her claim, yet she and ber counsel, ex-Surrogate Ransom of this city, and B. B. Smalley of Vermont feel confident that they will be able to establish her dower right.

Cross-examination of Mrs. Page was postponed until after the taking of testimony in Vermont.

There had been fifteen cases at Osaki and Hiago together up to June 15.

MONUMENT TO FREMONT.

It Will Be Erected on the Hudson Over the Pathfinder's Grave. NEW YORK, July 12.—The Associated Pioneers of Territorial Days of Cali-Pioneers of Territorial Days of California have issued a call to the late Gen. John C. Fremont's friends for funds to erect a suitable monument over the General's grave. The committee having the matter in charge are Reat Admiral Richard W. Meade, U. S. N., retired, president of the society in New Tork; Francis D. Clark, Stephen B. French, Henry Wilson, Mark D. Wilbur, W. A. Hedenberg, John Goult and John D. Townsend. The General is buried in Rockland Cemetery on the Hudson. The design of the proposed monument has already been settled upon and is by Clio Hinton Hunicker of this city. The design shows the heroic sized figure of the General standing upon a rock; the total height of the monument is twenty-two feet. On the rock is cut a cross in commemoration of the cross Fremont cut upon Rock Independence, and the words "Fremont—the Path-Finder." It has been deemed best to confine the cost of the monument to $10,000 and the movement to the pioneers of California and Gen. Fremont's personal, military and political friends.

The marriage is the outcome of a long courtship between the lovers. Nobody seemed to object except Mr. Thiel. He went so far as to forbid the young man to come to his house. Mrs. Thiel and the sisters of the bride looked favorably upon the match and sided Miss Abbie in consummating her heart's desire.

The Niedringhaus family also regarded the union as desirable, and assisted in hastening the wedding ceremony.

Louis A. Cella has not yet succeeded in obtaining a renewal of his license for "The Place," at Twenty-first and Washington. Comptroller Sturgeon refused to sigh his application on behalf of the city, which owns an engine-house on the block. Mr. Sturgeon based his refusal on the fast that a shooting affray took place on election day in Cella's saloon, which was open in violation of law. Besides Cella's general record in the business has not been of the best. The signature of the city's agent was necessary to obtain a majority of the property owners, and great pressure was brought to bear on Comptroller Sturgeon, but he stood firm.

Now Cella, through his attorney; has taken a new tack. He has raised the point that the law requires the application to be signed by a majority of taxpayers, and as city property is exempt from taxation it does not count as a factor in the matter. Excise Commissioner Bell has not had this point raised before and has taken it under consideration. If it is held to be valid Cella has a chance in spite of his record unless there should be an adverse report of his place by the police or Mr. Bell's agents. The police have not officially reported Cella's place as having been open in violation of law on election day. No policeman saw it open, and the mere fact that a man was shot in there while a gang of men was at the bar drinking is aparently regarded as insufficient evidence.

pecial to the Post-Dispatch.
ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 12.—It was ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 12.—It was demonstrated yesterday that some riders care more for riding than for watching races. A thousand or more wheelmen and wheelwomen rode out into the country while the contests were going on.

In one party was the most perfect understudy that is possible for a man in a long-haired woman. She wore a man's blue sweater, without corsets, over a short jacket—a man's jacket—of blue cloth. Her knickerbockers were not full by any means, and the tops of her woolen stockings—they were men's stockings—were turned over. A long-peaked bloycle cap was gerched boyishly on her head and she rode a diamond frame wheel, which a woman in skirts can't mount.

RACING BOARD MEETING. Meeting at Asbury Park Saturday Will

Be an Important One. The meeting of the L. A. W. Racing Board, which will be held at Asbury Park Saturday evening, will be one of the most Saturday evening, will be one of the most important and have more effect on cycle racing than any gathering of the L. A. W. officials ever held before. It will be the first meeting of the board appointed by President Willison when he assumed the lead of the organization, and the colleagues will find much to talk over in regard to professionalism, a question which is now greatly agitating the minds of all wheelmen.

While the Racing Board has virtually assumed control of professional races, and demands that all desiring to hold them shall procure a sanction, there are no specific rules governing this class, and the board may formulate a set for the cash prize riders. No provisions can be made, however, for the elimination of class B until the National Assembly meets next February.

It is harely possible that the action of until the National Assembly meets next February.

It is barely possible that the action of the board may be the reverse of what has been expected, and such measures passed that cyclists will prefer to remain in class B, rather than jump into the troubled sea, for several of the most prominent manufacturers have expressed themselves as decidedly opposed to the proposed class "P", and say they will release all their B men if they join the pros.

CORBETT'S BATHING ROBE.

who is such an autocrat in the matter of who is such an autocrat in the matter of bathing robes and blcycle suits, may have a fight when he sees Corbett's new bath-robe. It is an exact reproduction of one owned by the Maharajah of Kapurthala, the distinguished person who gained ever-lasting fame by riding through the streets of London in a parade clad in a pink night-robe.

Corbett uses the precious garment very carelessly, and makes it serve all the purposes of an ordinary bath-robe and a little more. He wears it from his handball court to his gymnasium several times a day, and when he decides to take a plunge in the lake the robe is always put on over his bathing suit.

OF THE DEFENDER SYNDICATE. PLUNGING ON THE BLOCK.

Joe Ullman and Marcus Cartwright Took Great Chances at Detroit. Up to the last day at Detroit, Joe Ullman, the plunging St. Louis bookmaker, was $5,000 behind the game. Marcus Cartwright, who is now at the Fair Grounds, drew in on Monday, and in three days dropped more than Ullman. Thursday they took all the money tendered them on Saragossa at 1 to 2 and 11 to 20. Ullman took in $5,100 and won $1,600 on the race, while Cartwright took in $4,000 and kept $3,000. Cartwright took one bet of $1,000 to $550. The largest bet Ullman got was $500 to $250. Had Figaro not been injured while taking his preliminary exercise Cartwright would have laid as good as even money against Saragossa and gone back to Nashville had that horse won. Lord Nelson after putting Figaro out of the race, won the race and brought disaster to the Canadian camp in which he belonged. While the Canadians were backing Saragossa at 11 to 20 to win, and Lake Shore at 3 to 5 for the place as 'good things,' the touts were taking a long chance, getting unsophisticated speculators to play Lord Nelson at 25 to 1 to win.

The long chance realized and Ullman paid an the plunging St. Louis bookmaker win.

The long chance realized and Ullman paid out $3,500 on the race. But the defeat of May Thompson by Joe Miller, and the breaking down of Rover in the steeple-chase, put a lot of money in the boxes of Ullman and Cartwright, and each quit the meeting about $1,600 loser.

Breezy Interview With the St. Louis Boy, New With Washington. Boy, New With Washington.

"Roaring" Bill Hassamaer, the St. Louis

"How did I come to play ball? I don't know. I'm a machinist by trade; but I'd sooner toss ball. My old daddy wanted me sooner toss ball. My old daddy wanted me to be a farmer. I was getting too gay around St. Louis, so he took me out about fourteen miles and give me to a farmer. I was 13 years old. Maybe it was my age hoodooed me. Anyhow, I got kicked by a horse; hooked by a cow; chewed by a dog; fell out of a tree; caught my hand in a corn-sheller; stuck a nail in my foot, and took the rheumatism all in one day. Then I quit and walked back to St. Louis, and was licked three times by other boys before I got there. That settled the farm business for me. I don't want none of it in mine. I'd rather take arsenic."

Jockey Lee Turner distinguished himself

GALVIN CHASED HIM.

Jimmie Galvin's recent appointment as a League umpire has caused a great deal of talk among the "fans" and incidentally brought out a great many stories about the genial James. One of these relates to James when he was at the zenith of his fame as a pitcher. All season Galvin had been twilling in rare form, but his batting, never strong, had been particularly weak. The others used to say that when Jimmie saw a hot one coming across the plate he would shut his eyes and "swipe" at it. The season was drawing to an end and Galvin had made scarcely a hit. It was a critical point in the game, with two out and the bases full, when Galvin walked to the plate. Every one expected him to shut his eyes and fan the air. He may have closed his eyes when a swift one came toward him, but he didn't fan the air—he caught the ball with the end of his bat and sent a sky-scraper far into center. It was a beautiful hit and gave the fielder a race to the limits, where, as the ball came down, he reached out and gathered it in—a phenomenal one-hand catch. Galvin had reachd second when he saw the fielder gather in his solitary long hit of the season. He kept on running straight into the center-fielder's garden and directly for that individual, breathing fire. The player who had gathered in Galvin's only hit saw him coming, recognized his danger and scaled the fence for a place of safety. Jimmie Galvin never forgave him for oatching what was apparently a home run. League umpire has caused a great deal of Trevor Jones, who has coached Trinity Hall to so many successes, said that he was convinced Cornell would have beaten Leander on Tuesday, if for no other reason than because of Cornell's advantage in the draw of positions. Trinity Hall boys, by the way, have been exceptionally courteous towards Cornell. Led by Trevor Jones, they vigorously cheered Cornell as they came to the winning post on Tuesday and fraterilized with the Americans after the race of yesterday. After State Records.
